

A P Velayudhan
Jyotish Prabhakar

ASTROLOGY

BIRTH CHART IS PREMONITORY TO HEALTH CHART

Astrology too prescribes the following to be the time of birth.

- 1. Nisheka kala (the time of conception) Perhaps based on the belief that the time of fertilization to be the beginning of life.
- 2. Sirodhaya (appearance or the out coming of the head) - may be prompted by the attribution of head to the ascendant or the first house in the horoscope.
- 3. Bhusparsi (complete body touching the earth) Perhaps going by the advocacy of ancient Sages.

ice of it, the link between logical birth chart and a health chart may not be relevant. However, a close look at both reveals the proximity of the two. A clear understanding and timely action can only bestow pink of health and also better fitness of for the time of 'first cry' of the baby to diagnose the illness of an Infant. An error in either case may result in a blunder. The question is, what stage of the delivery proceeding should be considered as the time of birth.

Gynecological procedure prescribes three stages in the management of labour.
During that period, any one of the six occurrences can be the candidate for the time of birth
- the crowning of the head, the birth of the
head, the birth of the anterior and posterior shoulders, division of the umbilical cord, effort to breathe and the first cry of the baby.

chart enables an astrologer to assess the physical condition of an individual and the course that it may take during his/her lifetime.
The health chart enables a doctor to assess the functioning of various organs and the overall well-being of human body.
To seek the actual birth time, astrologers cast a Horoscope or birth chart. Pediatricians look

